Planning the future of local government Putting the pieces together

May 2011 will see 11 new councils in Northern Ireland with planning powers for the first time since 1973. RTPI NI, the Planning Service and NILGA combined to deliver this event to help Members and Officers to prepare for planning to be delivered as a local government function (links below will take you to the related Presentation – many are large files that may take a while to download).
