The Olympics may be good news for some towns and cities, where investment is being concentrated. But are the rest of us getting a raw deal? Speakers will look at planning for sport and then at the more traditional planning topics of open space, recreation and leisure, but as now wrapped up in green infrastructure (GI). PPG17 was published in 2002 and is up for review. We will have a look at how it has fared as a framework for policy and practice and what might replace it. Biodiversity and flood control will get a mention too and we will wrap it all up with a progress report on green infrastructure plans of various sorts.
