RTPI Networks

The RTPI Networks provide a clear and effective voice for people with interests in particular topics and sectors.

The RTPI Networks are open to both RTPI members and non-RTPI members. They are for you if you have an interest in spatial planning and want to improve your level of professional competence, keep up to date with current issues, develop new initiatives, and share expertise. Our Networks will provide you with a voice in influencing the planning profession.

Our current RTPI Networks include:

- Development Management Network
- Development Planning Network
- Environmental Planning and Protection Network
- ESPON UK Network
- Independent Consultants' Network
- International Development Network
- Planning Administrators' Network
- Planning Education and Research Network
- Planning for Housing Network
- Planning with Communities Network
- Politicians in Planning Network (PIPA)
- Regeneration Network
- Rural Planning Network
- Transport Planning Network
- Urban Design Network
- Young Planners' Network

Why join an RTPI Network?

- to keep up to date with recent developments in spatial planning
- to have a voice in influencing the planning profession
- to build a network of colleagues who share the same interests
- to secure help with issues and challenges
- to develop and share views
- to form professional friendships and mentoring relationships
- to get more involved.

Some of the many benefits you will receive as a member of an RTPI Network include:

- regular bulletins, updates and good practice examples
- invitations to free or low-cost events where members can share and develop good practice in a friendly and relaxed environment
- virtual and face-to-face networking opportunities
- opportunities to campaign for improvements in policy and practice
- dedicated Network websites with topical information and helpful links.

Membership of an RTPI Network is open to everyone with an interest in any aspect of spatial planning.
