Our event formats

Masterclasses

Led by subject experts, our one-day masterclasses are dedicated learning sessions focused on specific technical subjects or key skills to support your role and development as a planner. Delegate numbers are restricted to enhance learning outcomes.

Briefings

Our one-day briefings are chaired by experts in their fields and offer a key combination of the latest updates and case studies from industry professionals brought together to give you practical insights into current issues and legislation.

RTPI's Core CPD Framework

The RTPI Code of Professional Conduct requires you to plan, undertake and record 50 hours of CPD in each 2-year period. Undertaking CPD differentiates a professional planner from someone who is just practising planning. The RTPI's Framework has been developed with input from members, employers and the wider profession. It provides a comprehensive overview of the Core CPD for the profession. Our Training programme is aligned to the Framework to help you prioritise your learning and development of both professional skills and planning knowledge.

There are 10 priorities:

Professional Skills

- Championing Planning
- Business Development
- Ethics and Professionalism
- Digital Planning
- Design

Planning Knowledge

- Infrastructure Planning and Economic Development
- Health and Inclusive Planning
- Housing
- Environmental Planning
- Planning Law and Process

Planning and design: making better places

Course aim

Design awareness and assessment is an important skill for planners. The physical form of buildings and spaces is essential for development management and sustainable development, however achieving high standards of design through the planning system is challenging.

This masterclass will consider the following issues:

- How can local authorities write effective design policy?
- How can consultants help developers achieve good design?
- What is the role of design in winning planning appeals?
- In appraising development, how can planners tell the difference between good design and bad?
- How can we avoid the problem of a development receiving planning permission but then something of inferior quality being built?

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Gain an insight into national and local frameworks and the implications these have for design
- Take part in a site visit, exploring the process of appraising design
- Learn how to write design guidance and design codes
- Work on case studies and review good practice.

Core CPD Framework:

- Design

Time

Heritage and conservation: making better places

Course aim

Conserving and enhancing the historic environment is an integral element of sustainable development. Local heritage and archaeology can affect project programmes and have an impact on the design of a development.

This masterclass will provide an overview of relevant legislation and practical advice to achieve balance and deliver successful projects which include heritage assets or archaeology.

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Learn how to apply the legislation and policy governing the historic environment in England, including Conservation Areas
- Gain insight into what designated and undesignated heritage assets are, the setting of heritage assets and how they are assessed
- Understand analysis techniques including Heritage Statements and Heritage Impact Assessments

Core CPD Framework:

Giving evidence at inquiries

Course aim

Public inquiries (whether planning appeals or other inquiries) can put increased pressure and stress on the staff involved, many of whom may have little experience of the inquiry process. At some stage in their careers, most town planners will be required to give evidence at some type of formal hearing where they will be subject to cross-examination by barristers. This masterclass will provide you with the tools and techniques to prepare properly for such a situation.

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Understand the role and duties of expert witnesses
- Learn how to present your evidence to the best of your ability at the inquiry and deal confidently with cross-examination
- Gain valuable knowledge to feel confident to prepare and appear at a public inquiry

Core CPD Framework:

- Ethics and Professionalism
- Championing Planning
- Planning Law and Process

Negotiation and influencing for planners

Course aim

Negotiation skills are essential for all planners. We use these skills frequently, yet people find negotiating to be a stressful experience. This masterclass will equip you with a range of practical tools and techniques to improve your chances of getting a positive outcome to a negotiation, and help you to use negotiations as a way to build on and strengthen relationships.

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Learn what makes a good negotiator
- Gain insight into how to prepare for a negotiation
- Understand the key steps of the negotiation conversation

Leadership for planners

Course aim

Planners have a critical leadership role to play in creating visionary places for people. Leaders at their best create the ‘right’ conditions within which individuals can thrive and develop. For most leaders this has to be achieved against a backdrop of resource constraints, rising expectations and the pressures of the day-to-day.

This masterclass will provide insights and ideas to help you develop and sustain a valued reputation as a leader.

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Explore what good leadership is
- Learn what qualities are needed for high performing planning teams
- Leadership during change – what does this mean? How do you do it?

Communication skills for planners

Course aim

As a planner, you have a key role to communicate complex and technical information and planning jargon to a range of audiences. How can you grab attention, hold it, and get your message across in the right way? This masterclass will equip you with all the essential skills needed to ensure you are listened to in conversations, in meetings and when speaking in public.

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Explore the key basics of successful spoken communication
- Gain insight into having effective meetings and conversations
- Learn key tips on how to present and speak in public clearly and persuasively

Environmental Impact Assessments

Course aim

This key masterclass is built around the procedural steps a local planning authority undertakes in enabling and reviewing the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) process. It will enable you to identify which developments need EIA, the topics to be scoped and covered, and will teach you how to identify and assess significant environmental effects of the proposals. The EIA process can feel complex and so this masterclass is designed to provide you with the knowledge and understanding needed to approach each step with confidence.

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Build your confidence across the EIA process
- Enhance your understanding of the EIA Regulations and the formal screening and scoping stages
- Gain valuable hints and tips around the Environmental Statement and decision notice
- Recognise the need for proportionate assessment and mitigation practice

This masterclass will provide you with a thorough and thought provoking introduction to the UK planning system from a legal perspective. This will be placed in the context of sustainable development and spatial planning. This masterclass is essential for anyone starting off in their career or wanting to expand their knowledge of planning law in a variety of contexts.

Through a combination of expert trainer input, discussion and group work, you will:

- Understand the terminology of case law and key planning legislation and regulations
- Know the implications for development plans and environmental assessments
- Gain a better understanding of the key processes including planning applications and planning enforcements
- Have relevant case studies that exemplify how planning law could affect your work

Core CPD Framework:
